

Education Collection Description

The collection is maintained by the Education and Social Science Library.

The Education collection supports the instructional and research programs of the College of Education and the Council on Teacher Education. The collection is approximately 266,000 volumes, which does not include materials in the School Collection and the Curriculum Collection. The Library contains one of the largest educational research collections in the country, with strengths in 19th century European university catalogs and publications. The affiliated Odell Test Collection (8,450 titles) supports research in areas related to achievement, aptitude, personality and intelligence.
