NOVEMBER 8, 2021

10:30am-12:00pm CT | 30th Anniversary Forum and Celebration

12:30-2:00 pm CT | 31st Annual Mortenson Distinguished Lecture

(Virtual events | Find your local time using www.worldtimebuddy.com)

Registration: <https://go.illinois.edu/distinguishedlecture>

Join us for a lecture with Dr. Kaposi, who brings nearly a century of perspective as she tells her life story and the role of information as a source of power/control resulting in otherness, exclusion, propaganda, dislocation, as well as transformation in engineering change. A conversation will follow, moderated by Dr. Valerie Matsumoto, to connect Dr. Kaposi's experiences with those of other marginalized and dislocated groups worldwide, such as Japanese Americans, to identify similarities and differences across time and locations, as we rethink some of the most pressing issues that libraries face in promoting equitable communities in our information-intensive and networked society.
